press release

Advanced Technologies announces new headquarters to enhance innovation and production in various strategic areas

January 2024, Trezzano sul Naviglio - Advanced Technologies, an internationally recognized company in the markets of customized Industrial PCs, Medical Imaging, and System Integration for Logistic Automation, announces the opening of its new operational headquarters. This move represents a tangible symbol of the company's constant growth and expansion.

The new facility, significantly larger than the previous one, has been designed to ensure more space for both production and storage. This expansion allows Advanced Technologies to increase its production capacity, strengthening its position as one of the main players in the tailor-made Industrial PC market and opening new opportunities in the areas of Medical Imaging and logistics.

Davide Nardelli, CEO of Advanced Technologies, emphasizes: "The opening of our new headquarters is a clear sign of our growth and dynamism in various technological sectors. With this expansion, we raise the level of quality and innovation that our clients expect from us. Advanced Technologies is committed to offering solutions that are increasingly suited to the complex and evolving needs of the industry, medical sector, and logistics."

This expansion is not only a production increase but also provides a more modern and stimulating work environment for the Advanced Technologies team, reflecting the company culture that has always placed people at the center of its growth.

With this expansion, Advanced Technologies reaffirms its commitment to excellence and leadership in key sectors, writing a new chapter in its success story.
